

Lawn care includes environmental concerns

The Professional Lawn Care Association of Ontario (PLCAO) is an organization representing licensed lawn care professionals, which has numerous members throughout Ontario. Chances are the lawn care company that comes to your home is a member. Should this be the case, you can be assured that your lawn care provider is delivering a service with the latest in technology and environmental best practices. Along with servicing your lawn and garden needs, PLCAO members practice Integrated Pest Management (IPM), which serves many environmental concerns. Look for the new IPM accreditation logo on the vehicles.

So, the next time you see your lawn care service provider, ask what professional association the company belongs to. It's in your best interest. Call 519-836-4906 for more information. 🌿
